University Theatre Will Feature Historic Comedy

"Spirit of '76" captures the fancy of a Manhattan family in University Theatre's winter production "George Washington Slept Here."

The play, to be presented Feb. 9-11, deals with the purchase of a pre-revolutionary house shrouded in American history and debris in up-state New York.

The proud new owner, Newton Fuller—played by Rod Foss—is enraptured with his purchase and cannot seem to recognize the faults in his "prize" such as:

no closets, water or bathrooms.

His not-so-enraptured wife, played by Carol Robinson, tries to reconstruct the ruin.

Mr. Kimber, played by Tom Hicks, is the caretaker and seems to fit Mrs. Fuller's query of "And have you been here two hundred years too?"

This comedy by Moss Hart and "George S. Kaufman" includes several other colorful characters: a Broadway actor and his wife doing summer stock; Madge Fuller, daughter in the family, and her collection of friends, domestics, relatives and neighborhood callers.

The Fuller's overcome environment (rain storms, poison ivy, seventeen-year locusts, Mr. Kimber) and heredity (Mrs. Fuller doesn't like the country) only to be faced with the loss of their property after they have grasped and enjoyed the way of life.

"George" is being directed by Dr. Edwin L. Clark, head of University Theatre. Technical direction is under Jerry Rojo.

Students Enjoy Active Participation, Bail Says

President Milo Bail has predicted that some 25 to 100 universities may drop football or revamp the program within the next five years.

The President, on returning from the conference of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, said that the general consensus was that current football programs are losing money and support.

Have Many Activities
"We agreed that many students are now more interested in participating in sports such as bowling, skating, skiing, golfing and tennis," he pointed out. "Other extracurricular activities and responsibilities are also consuming more of their time."

President Bail mentioned that on the first day of the conference (it was held Jan. 9 and 10), Denver University dropped football. "That University has a problem similar to OU's," he said.

Intramurals Expand

According to the President, the program of recruiting athletes from other states is no longer so popular as students "would rather cheer for players from their own area."

The President explained that the Cleveland area has "a unique situation where colleges of that area compete against each other for satisfaction only."

"No expensive program is necessary," he continued, "and grade averages increased."

The increased popularity of intramurals was also discussed at the conference.

Attended AAC Meet

At the meeting of the Association of American Colleges Jan. 11-13, six prominent professors talked on "Current Trends in Universities."

The men represented Harvard, Yale, Oberlin, Columbia, Chicago and Princeton universities.

"The program was valuable in reminding us of the real purpose of the University—to educate minds," President Bail concluded.

Orientation Is Set for Feb. 9

University President Milo Bail will welcome the new students and then a brief talk will be presented by Dean Pfisterer.

Following the auditorium meeting, new students will be sent to other rooms representing each of the five colleges. The appropriate academic dean who heads each college will preside. The dean will give a short orientation talk and introduce counselors and instructors.

Two members of Waokiya, Senior women's honorary, will then talk to the entering students and answer questions about campus life. This is the first time a student group such as Waokiya has taken part in new student orientation.

Roman Forum Atmosphere In Speakeasies

By Bev Larsen

Alcoves C and D of the cafeteria might just as well be a Roman forum when you consider the orations being given by the members of the Speakeasies.

This group meets each Tuesday at noon, under the sponsorship of Dr. Aldrich Paul. The faces change from week to week and membership is always open. No invitations are given or needed, all you need do is bring your lunch and sit down.

The only requirement for Speakeasies is that every person in the room gives a one minute oration on variant subjects. These subjects are distributed on small pieces of paper and viewed only seconds before you have the floor. This system causes some pretty hilarious speeches.

During an oration if a member should emit the fatal word "a-a-a-a" he will be reminded by the clinking sound of ten or fifteen pennies bouncing on the table. All members are allowed to bounce pennies.

Don't let these conditions scare you away because the Speakeasies are truly a lot of fun. Why not drop in on the next meeting?

Devil Dance Jan. 31; King Satan Elected

King Stan will be elected by an all-Greek vote at the Alpha Xi Delta Devil Dance Tuesday, Jan. 31 in the Student Center Ballroom.

Eddie Haddad's Orchestra will play for the dance from 9-12 p. m.

A Coketail party for Alpha Xi's and their dates and sorority sponsors will be held before the dance at Sandy Bergstadt's home.

Twin Sweethearts For ISA Dance

ISA Sweethearts, Bernie and Gerrie Lund, will be honored at the all-school post final dance Feb. 3 in the Student Center Ballroom. The twins were elected by ISA members.

The dance is sponsored by the Independent Students Association. Admission will be one Omaha University activity card per couple.

Dress for the dance is semi-formal.

The Carl Jay Orchestra will play for the dance from 9-12 p. m.

Dinner, Dance for Angels, Arnold Air

Reservations for the dinner and dance are three dollars per couple.

Angels Operations Officer Joyce Stolley is in charge of the arrangements.

Irv Peterson, Nebraska Wesleyan basketball coach, was once the property of the St. Louis Cardinal Baseball Club.

CIC Champs Dump Indians

Omaha University's best basketball effort of the season fell one point short Saturday night as the Indians dropped a 66-65 decision to defending Central Intercollegiate Conference champion Pittsburg State.

The Indians, down five points with a minute to play, saw victory hopes die with only a few seconds remaining.

Pittsburg was content to hold onto the ball with a one point lead after Roger Brown's tip in with 12 seconds left to play.

The Indians led only once although they were in contention throughout the contest.

Wendell Wiskell hit 18 points for the Tribe.

St. Benedict's thumped the Omahans 62-47 Tuesday. Don Listar, 6-6 center and a second team all-conference selection last year, led the Ravens with 17 points.

Larry Dostal, in his first varsity appearance, dumped in 15 points to lead the losing Indian attack.

Wendell Wiksell, who had netted a total of 45 points in the two previous contests against Creighton and Pittsburg, did not see action against the Ravens.

St. Benedict's got off to an early 6-1 lead and were never headed. The Indians came within two points of the Kansans in the second half but were unable to take the lead.

The Indians take on Hastings College Saturday, January 21, and then meet four CIC opponents in a row.

Emporia State, who dropped the Indians 88-58 earlier, is here January 28.

The Tribe then journeys into Kansas land where they will tackle St. Benedict's and Pittsburg in a week-end series February third and fourth.

Fort Hays will offer the first Indian opposition of the new semester when the move into town February 10.

OU Grapplers Face Simpson

Russ Gorman's wrestlers will try to start a new win streak when they face Simpson College on Jan. 20, and South Dakota State on Feb. 4. Both will be home matches.

Coach Gorman said: "We will have to go all out to beat South Dakota State; its wrestlers are in top-notch condition and will be ready to wrestle nine minutes straight."

"Simpson College, whose coach Larry Johnson, is a former Omaha U athlete, will also be tough," he said.

Fort Hays Ties

Fort Hays State tied OU, 14 to 14, last Friday night and then traveled to Nebraska University the following night to defeat the Huskers. None of OU's first team wrestled in the Fort Hays match.

An all senior Kansas State squad defeated the Indian grapplers Saturday 16 to 10. Gorman commented, "That we wrestled better in the Kansas State match than any other in the four years I have been here."

"We were in the match up to the end," he said. "Poor grades, the chief cause of ineligibilities, will be the only thing that will halt our progress."
